ABOUT MYSELF

My research focuses on the experiences of international students and early-career scholars, educational policies in different political regimes, technological aspects of education and the well-being of graduate students. I also explore topics such as academic time use, educational leadership, AI in education, decolonization of higher education, employing both qualitative and mixed methods approaches.

I am a Fulbright Scholar and an Erasmus+ alumna, with over seven years of experience in teaching, research, and university administration—particularly in roles related to the internationalization of higher education.
