Dr. Park is an assistant professor in the Department of Educational Leadership at Miami University, where she teaches in the Student Affairs in Higher Education program. She received her Ph.D. in Education from UCLA with a concentration in Asian American Studies. Her work addresses the areas of racial diversity in higher education and college access. More specifically, she studies how “structure” (institutional demography, social stratification, etc.) and “culture” (the taken for granted values, assumptions, and norms of a particular organization, institution, ethnicity, or social class) interact to shape educational opportunities and experiences. Her work has been published in venues such as the Journal of Higher Education, the Journal of College Student Development, and Teachers College Record. Currently, she is working on a book manuscript on what happens when institutions lose racial diversity. You may contact her at parkjj@muohio.edu.
