

Webinar

Research-Practice Partnerships with Schools and Communities: Collaborations for Culturally and Linguistically Diverse Learners

Sponsored by AERA and TESOL International

When and Where?

Date: Wednesday, January 16

Time: 3:00 - 5:00pm (Eastern Standard Time)

Fee: Free for current TESOL & AERA members

Content

The panelists on this webinar will discuss how they have been involved in research-practice partnerships with schools and communities and what they have learned through their experience. They will address these questions:

- How might research collaborations between schools, communities, and universities impact culturally and linguistically diverse students' learning?
- What is the role of faculty in maintaining and developing sustainable relationships?
- What are the criteria for success in school-university or community-university partnerships?

Panelists

Megan Madigan Peercy

Associate Professor, University of Maryland

Judy Sharkey

Associate Professor, University of New Hampshire

Carrie Symons

Assistant Professor, Michigan State University