Course Description:

This course is designed to provide an overview of the field of special education by examining the nature and characteristics of various exceptionalities (across age and severity) and always within the context of the educational impact upon the student. Emphasis will be placed on contributions of research and best practice that focus on services and programs that help meet students educational, social, and/or personal goals. In addition, critical topics in the field of special education such as, research-based practices necessary for effective collaboration and consultation with parents, school personnel, and other professionals and related multicultural issues/perspectives will be addressed, as well as evidence-based practices and universal design principles for learning and inclusion of students with disabilities. The course goals will be addressed through the use of blended-instruction with a combination of (in class) face-to-face and on-line instructional sessions to explore a variety of topics in the field of special education. This will include online media such as case studies, chapter readings, class and online assessments, and related exercises.

General Course Policies

Attendance Guidelines

University policy excuses the absences of students for illness (self or dependent), religious observances, participation in University activities at the request of University authorities, and compelling circumstances beyond the student's control. For every excused absence, a reasonable effort should be made to notify the instructor in advance of the class. When returning to class, bring a note identifying the date of and reason for the absence. In addition:

You are not able to earn participation points for class activities that occur when you are not present in class, whether your absence is excused or unexcused.

To earn full credit for written assignments when absent, submit them electronically (via email or on ELMS) on the day they are due (for planned, excused absences).

You are responsible for obtaining all notes, handouts, assignments, etc. for any missed classes from a fellow classmate.

Should the University close due to inclement weather or other event, we will contact the class via Announcements to determine what we will do in lieu of a face to face meeting. If we are scheduled to meet online on the day of the campus closure, your online work should continue even if the University is closed.

Religious Observances

The University of Maryland policy states that students should not be penalized in any way for participation in religious observances and that whenever feasible, they be allowed to make up academic assignments that are missed due to such absences. Please let me know in writing and in advance if you are missing class for this reason.

Use of Electronic Devices

You are asked to turn off your phone during class unless you are using it as a clicker response system – in that event you are asked to silence your ringer. Computers may be used to take notes during class, but only for class activities. Failure to honor this request will result in the loss of the opportunity to use a computer during class. Inappropriate use of computers or cell phones will result in a loss of participation points.

Accommodations for Students with Disabilities

If you have a documented disability and wish to discuss academic accommodations, contact me as soon as possible. Help in study skills, time management, writing, etc. is available at the Learning Assistance Service (LAS), a division of the Counseling Center. Location is 2201 Shoemaker Bldg (301) 314-7693, www.infonn.umd.edu/LASRV.

Academic Integrity

The University is one of a small number of universities with a student-administered Code of Academic Integrity and an Honor Pledge. The Code prohibits students from cheating on exams, plagiarizing papers, submitting the same paper for credit in two courses without authorization, buying papers, submitting fraudulent documents, and forging signatures. You are responsible for upholding these standards. It is very important for you to be aware of the consequences of cheating, fabrication, facilitation, and plagiarism. For more information on the Code of Academic Integrity or the Honor Council, visit <http://www.shc.umd.edu>.

Include the following statement on assignments as a commitment to the academic integrity: “I pledge on my honor that I have not given or received any unauthorized assistance on this examination (or assignment).”

CourseEvalUM

As a member of our academic community, you have a number of important responsibilities. One of these responsibilities is to submit course evaluations each term through CourseEvalUm to help faculty and administrators improve teaching and learning at Maryland. Please make a note now of the link at which you can access the submission system at that time (www.courseevalum.umd.edu).

Grading Policies

A+ 98 - 100%	B+ 87 – 89%	C+ 77 – 79%	D+ 67 – 69%
A 93 – 97%	B 83 – 86%	C 73 – 76%	D 63 – 66%
A- 90 - 92 %	B- 80 – 82%	C- 70 – 72%	D- 60 – 62%
			F 0 – 59%

Professionalism

You are expected to conduct yourself in a professional manner. This includes interpersonal dealings, conflict resolution, and managing responsibilities with course instructors, fellow students, and guest speakers. A student’s participation grade may be lowered by one full letter grade for inappropriate behavior.

Participation

You are expected to prepare for class by reading assignments in advance of the topics to be covered and taking an active role in all class discussions, lectures, presentations, and activities.

Due Dates/Late Assignments

You are responsible for submitting all assignments on time. Ten percent of the grade will be deducted every day an assignment is late. For example: an assignment worth 10 points submitted on time would be eligible for 100 percent of the 10 points. The same assignment submitted 2 days late would be eligible for 80% of the final points earned. If the student earned a grade of 6 points on an assignment that was 2 days late, the recorded grade would be: 4.8 points (80% of the 6 points earned had the assignment been submitted on time).

Group Project

Group projects require equal participation among all members of the group. Upon the discretion of the instructor, individual assignments or one group assignment may be required for submission. In both cases, individual grades will be assigned to each member of the group and the grade assigned may vary among members of the same group. The instructor has the discretion to assign different grades among the group based on participation and quality of work.

Please Note: This syllabus, along with course assignments and due dates are subject to change. It is the student’s responsibility to check ELMS for corrections or updates to the syllabus. Any changes will be clearly noted in course announcement through the ELMS notification system.
